Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 12 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Frequent showers and strong winds throughout, with possible hail.

Today:
Another wet and windy day, with showers throughout. These are likely to be lighter during the morning, turning heavier later in the afternoon, carrying risk of hail. Blustery, with some coastal gales. The odd sunny spell, but feeling cold. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Tonight:
This evening will see frequent heavy showers across the region, before easing in the early hours. Winds strengthening, with gales developing, severe along coasts. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Saturday:
Another day of frequent showers, some carrying risk of hail, easing by evening. Winds easing slightly, but remain strong throughout. Largely dry overnight, with winds easing. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Some light rain on Sunday. Blustery, though less than recently. Largely dry with patchy cloud Monday, with winds easing. Rain and drizzle Tuesday morning, but some sunshine later.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.